PALMER PARK PROJECT

The Borelians are thrilled to announce that they are embarking on a historic theatrical project! As the proud recipients of the Scugog Council for the Arts' 2017 Spark the Arts grant, the Borelians will be commissioning a new play written by our own Graeme Powell. The two-year project will collect real memories from Scugog residents and combine them with the fascinating history of Palmer Park to tell one big story about our shared experience with Port Perry's most beloved landmark. Slated to premier at Town Hall 1873 in February 2019, this massive undertaking will involve the entire Borelians family and inspire many more to participate. If you would like to learn more about this project, or if you would like to share your personal story about Palmer Park with us, please visit the project's website:
